IL PLATANO

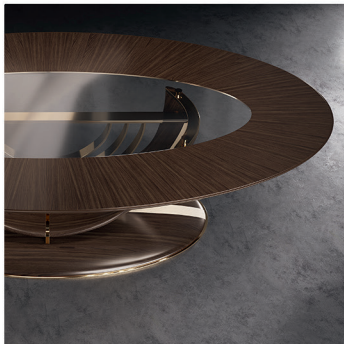

TAVOLO | TABLE

by Vito Lupo

Il tavolo riprende le linee e le forme canoniche dell'arte classica, sviluppando ed esaltando i principi della curva e del cerchio in tutte le loro parti. Anche il disegno a intarsio in ottone sul piano in marmo suggerisce un'ellisse contenente un cerchio, che si sviluppa a sua volta per cerchi concentrici attorno all'area centrale. Il basamento del tavolo è ricavato dalla piegatura del massello sapientemente lavorato. Il contrasto materico delle due essenze, poste l'una accanto all'altra, sottolinea ancora di più la difficoltà di lavorazione del materiale.

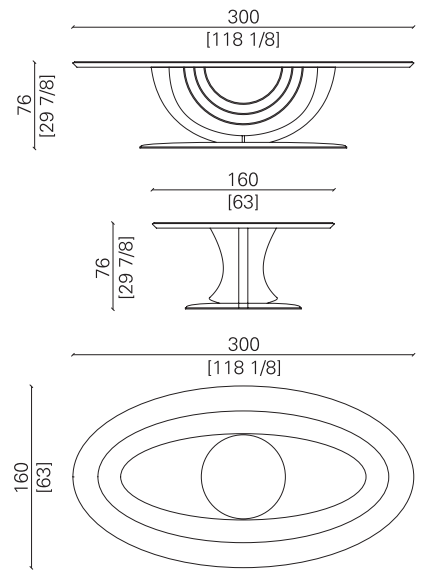

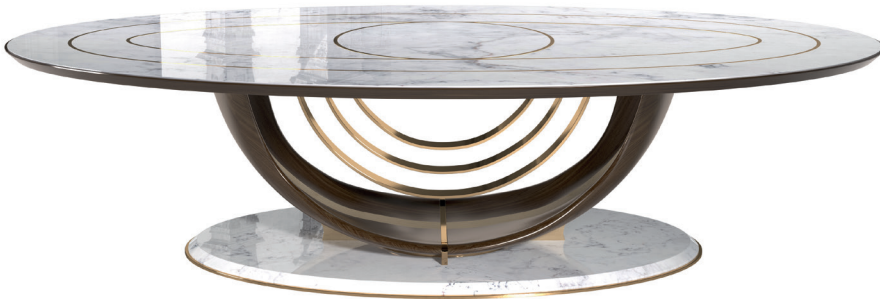

The table goes back to the canonical lines and shapes of classical art, developing and exalting the principles of the curve and the circle in all their parts. The inlaid brass design on the marble tabletop suggests an ellipse that contains a circle, which in turn develops by concentric circles around the central area. The base of the table is formed by the skillful bending of solid wood. The material contrast of the two types of wood, set one alongside the other, further highlights the complexity of the process.
